LOSS OF DRAINAGE WATER BY REED TRANSPIRATION

M. A. Younis

Plant Protection Dept. - College of Agric. - University of Baghdad

ABSTRACT

It was estimated that 66 million m³ of drainage water is lost by transpiration of reed plants growing along drainage canals in Iraq per year. This loss is expected to increase rapidly with the increase of drainage water. It is recommended to conserve this water by cutting reed plants and make use of them.

المصادر

The Iraqi Journal of Agricultural Sciences, IAJ: 103-104, 2005

The Journal of Agricultural Sciences, IAJ: 103-104, 2005